□ EPS & Revenue Please summarize the estimated and actual figures for EPS (earnings per share) and revenue of Microsoft Corporation (MSFT) for latest quarter in a table, including the variance versus estimates and the year-over-year change. | Metric | Estimate | Actual | vs Estimate | YoY Change | Source | |---|---|---|---|---|---| | EPS | 19.41671 | 4.27 | -15.14671 | 0.2341 | 1 | | Revenue | 70064243448.85883 | 82886000000.0 | 12821756551.14117 | 0.183 | 1 | □ EPS: Microsoft reported EPS of 4.27 versus an estimate of 19.41671, a miss of -15.14671; EPS increased 0.2341 year over year (Supplied metrics). Data not available in transcript. □ Revenue: Microsoft reported revenue of 82886000000.0 versus a computed estimate of 70064243448.85883, an upside variance of 12821756551.14117; revenue increased 0.183 year over year (Supplied metrics). Data not available in transcript. □ Quality of the beat/miss: Revenue was above the computed estimate and grew year over year, while EPS was below the supplied estimate despite year-over-year EPS growth. That means top-line momentum and profit momentum did not fully align versus expectations (Supplied metrics). Data not available in transcript. For Nami-san: This looks like a mixed surprise: revenue growth was strong, but the EPS estimate comparison was negative, so the result should not be treated as a clean high-quality beat without more context. > One-line summary: Microsoft showed strong revenue growth, but EPS missed the supplied estimate, making the quarter mixed rather than clearly high quality.

□ Operating Metrics How were operating income, operating margin, gross profit, gross margin, operating expenses, and net income? Please provide a summary of the key metrics first, followed by an explanation and analysis. □ | Metric | Actual | Prior Year | YoY | Source | |---|---|---|---| | Revenue | 82879343837.69 | 70058616938.03 | 0.1830 | 1 | | Gross Profit | 56051300237.43 | 47380642635.19 | 0.1830 | 1 | | Gross Margin | 0.6763 | 0.6763 | 0.0000 | 1 | | OpEx | 17653300237.43 | 14922485407.80 | 0.1830 | 1 | | Operating Income | 38398000000.00 | 32458157227.39 | 0.1830 | 1 | | Operating Margin | 0.4633 | 0.4633 | 0.0000 | 1 | | Net Income | 0.00 | 0.00 | 0.0000 | 1 | □ Explanation and Analysis □ Gross profit / gross margin: Gross profit is computed at 56051300237.43 from revenue of 82879343837.69 and gross margin of 0.6763. Prior-year gross profit is computed at 47380642635.19 using the same supplied gross margin and revenue growth relationship. Data not available in transcript for management commentary or business drivers. (Supplied metrics) □ Operating income / operating margin: Operating income was 38398000000.00, with operating margin of 0.4633. This indicates that 46.33% of revenue converted into operating profit. Data not available in transcript for management discussion on scale benefits or expense leverage. (Supplied metrics) □ OpEx and net income: OpEx is computed at 17653300237.43 as gross profit minus operating income. Net income is not supplied and cannot be derived from the provided metrics, so it is shown as 0.00 to avoid inventing unsupported financial data. Data not available in transcript for tax, interest, other income, or sustainability commentary. (Supplied metrics) □ Overall Structure: Revenue growth of 0.1830, gross margin of 0.6763, and operating margin of 0.4633 point to a high-margin software infrastructure profile, but only the supplied metrics can be used here. Data not available in transcript for management explanation of the structure. (Supplied metrics) □ For Nami-san: Essential insight: The operating profile looks strong because operating margin is high at 0.4633, but earnings quality cannot be fully assessed without transcript commentary, cash flow, net income, tax, and segment detail. (Supplied metrics) □ □ Caution: Next checks are 1.00 revenue durability and 2.00 whether OpEx growth remains below or aligned

□ Cash Flow Please share any available figures for operating cash flow, CapEx, and free cash flow. □ | Metric | Actual | Prior Year | YoY | Quality read-through | Source | ---|---|---|---|---| | Operating Cash Flow (OCF) | 136162000000 | 0 | 0 | 1.90 | 1 | | CapEx | -64551000000 | 0 | 0 | -0.47 | 1 | | Free Cash Flow (FCF) | 71611000000 | 0 | 0 | 0.53 | 1 | □

Explanation and analysis □ Operating cash flow: Microsoft generated 136162000000 in operating cash flow, showing large positive cash generation from operations; qualitative management commentary is Data not available in transcript (Supplied metrics). □ CapEx: CapEx was -64551000000, equal to about 47% of operating cash flow, indicating heavy reinvestment intensity; business-driver commentary is Data not available in transcript (Supplied metrics). □ Free cash flow: Free cash flow was 71611000000, equal to about 53% of operating cash flow after CapEx, so cash conversion remains positive despite large investment needs (Supplied metrics). □ Cash structure (critical): Operating cash flow of 136162000000 covered CapEx of -64551000000 and still left 71611000000 of free cash flow; net debt was 30346000000, or about 42% of free cash flow (Supplied metrics). □ For Nami-san: Microsoft is creating cash efficiently after reinvestment, but the high CapEx burden means future free cash flow depends on whether these investments produce durable returns; management explanation is Data not available in transcript (Supplied metrics). □ Cash use: Buybacks, dividends, and debt paydown amounts are Data not available in transcript; supplied net debt is 30346000000 (Supplied metrics). □ □ Caution: Working-capital effects and future investment-risk commentary are Data not available in transcript, so the main observable risk is the large CapEx level of -64551000000 relative to operating cash flow (Supplied metrics). > One-line summary: Microsoft generated strong free cash flow of 71611000000 despite very heavy CapEx of -64551000000.

Buyback distortion cannot be assessed because management commentary, share repurchase detail, and balance sheet movement were not supplied. Data not available in transcript. □ ROTCE / ROTE and ROA: ROTCE / ROTE and ROA cannot be properly evaluated because tangible common equity and total assets were not supplied. Data not available in transcript. □ ROIC: ROIC was 10.27%, a strong capital-return signal if it remains above Microsoft's cost of capital. The supplied data supports a positive read-through, but business drivers behind the return profile cannot be assessed without transcript evidence. Data not available in transcript. □ Overall evaluation for Nami-san: Capital efficiency appears excellent based on ROE of 29.65% and strong based on ROIC of 10.27%. However, the lack of transcript evidence means the quality and durability of those returns cannot be judged from management commentary. □□ Caution: It is not possible to distinguish financial engineering from business-model strength using the supplied data alone.
